General Motors Corporation Awards Multi-Year Contract to Quorum to provide Integrated Dealer Management Systems (IDMS) throughout North America.

Detroit, Michigan, January 3, 2006 – Quorum Information Technologies Inc. (Quorum) announced today that the Company's wholly-owned subsidiary, Quorum Information Technologies (US) Inc., has signed a multi-year contract with General Motors Corporation (GM) to deliver on behalf of GM, Integrated Dealer Management Systems (IDMS) throughout North America. Quorum's proprietary Dealership Management System (DMS) software, XSELLERATOR™ will be the underlying technology provided under the contract. XSELLERATOR is a completely integrated, Windows-based DMS that automates and streamlines automobile dealerships' Sales, Service, Parts, Accounting and CRM processes.

Under the terms of the contract, which is effective January 1, 2006, Quorum is one of two chosen DMS providers that will be responsible for the delivery of IDMS software and related hardware and services on behalf of GM to GM-branded dealerships including Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, GMC, HUMMER, Pontiac and SAAB across North America.

"We have seen the future and the future is Quorum's XSELLERATOR DMS," said Diane Bressers, Controller, Trecek Automotive of Portage, WI, "We chose XSELLERATOR because we believe it is the best product on the market and we were thrilled when GM endorsed our choice by naming Quorum as an IDMS vendor."

"We moved to Quorum after years of having to deal with the antiquated products being offered by other DMS providers. It has allowed us to change the way we do business in our dealership. This system has helped us streamline our operations and sell more vehicles," said Ryan Finch, General Manager, Brian Finch Pontiac Buick GMC of London, ON. "Quorum has built the system by taking input from GM dealers and the results are obvious - a system that works the way a dealership needs it to work, and now that GM has named it as part of the IDMS solution, it can only get better."

"The award of this contract validates both our product, XSELLERATOR, and our approach to the DMS marketplace in North America. We expect to become a significant player in the marketplace as we grow through this contract over the next several years," said Maury Marks, President and CEO of Quorum. "GM has provided its dealerships with a clear alternative, XSELLERATOR, and with its modern, integrated design it will bring great efficiencies to both GM and their dealerships."

About Quorum:

Quorum (TSX V: QIS) is a successful information technology company that develops, markets, implements and supports its own software products for the automotive vertical.
